The aim of this information report is to explain how we implement our SEND policy. In other words, we want to show you how SEND support works in our school.

If you want to know more about our arrangements for SEND, read our SEND policy, which you can find on our website.

Note: If there are any terms we've used in this information report that you're unsure of, you can look them up in the Glossary at the end of the report.

1. What types of SEN does the school provide for?

UTC South Durham defines Special Educational Needs as those of any student who has any barrier that hinders their access to a standard differentiated curriculum. This includes those who have a significantly greater difficulty in learning and significantly slower progress than their peers, or have a disability that prevents or hinders them from making use of our educational facilities. Those students will access support which is different to, and in addition to that which is available through quality first teaching.

UTC South Durham currently provides support and guidance for a number of students with a range of difficulties which fall into the 4 key areas of SEND which are:

- Cognition and learning
- Communication and interaction
- Social, emotional and mental health difficulties
- Sensory and / or physical

2. Which staff will support my child, and what training have they had?

Our special educational needs co-ordinator, or SENDCO

Our SENDCO is Jak Heslop.

She is a qualified and experienced teacher, and will complete the National Award in Special Educational Needs Co-ordination in 2023.

Teachers

All of our teachers receive SEND training, and are supported by the SENDCO to meet the needs of students who have SEN.

Outline any external training your staff have done.

Teaching assistants (TAs)

We have a team of 5 TAs, who are trained to support our students and deliver SEN provision. These TAs are funded to support individual students who have SEND provision made through their EHC plan. They are also able to deliver small group interventions to our students.

We have TAs who are specialist in supporting students with ASC and an ELSA (Emotional Literacy Support Assistant). We also have teaching assistants who are trained to deliver a diverse range of interventions such as Lego Therapy.

External agencies and experts

Sometimes we need extra help to offer our students the support that they need. Whenever necessary we will work with external support services to meet the needs of our students with SEN and to support their families. These include, but are not limited to:

- Speech and language therapists
- Educational psychologists
- Occupational therapists

- GPs or paediatricians
- School nurses
- Child and adolescent mental health services (CAMHS)
- Education welfare officers
- Social services
- LA-provided support services, including autism support, the Cognition and Learning team, Communication and Interaction team, Hearing and Visual Impairment teams, the Anxious about Schools project.
- Mental Health Support Team
- Emotional Resilience and Wellbeing teams

3. What should I do if I think my child has SEN?

An SEN need can be initially identified by the child, parent or class teachers. Where a concern is raised, the SENDCO will gather further information from all of those involved in the day to day education of the child, including the student and parents. If it is found that there is evidence to suggest that additional intervention is necessary, an SEN passport is produced collaboratively which details individual need and suggested strategies to provide the support necessary to facilitate progress.

If you have any concerns about whether your child has a special educational need, you should contact the SENDCO directly at jak.heslop@utcsouthdurham.org who will be in touch to discuss your concerns. We will then follow the process above.

4. How will the school know if my child needs SEN support?

All our class teachers and support staff are aware of SEND and are on the lookout for any students who aren't making the expected level of progress in their schoolwork or socially amongst their peers.

If the teacher notices that a student is falling behind, they will identify any gaps in their learning. If they can find a gap, they will give the student extra support to try to fill it. Students who don't have SEN usually make progress quickly once the gap in their learning has been filled.

If the student is still struggling to make the expected progress, the teacher will talk to the SENDCO, and will contact you to discuss the possibility that your child has SEN.

The SENDCO will observe the student in the classroom to see what their strengths and difficulties are. They will have discussions with your child's teachers, to identify if there have been any issues with, or changes in, their progress, attainment or behaviour. They will also compare your child's progress and development with their peers and available national data.

The SENDCO will ask for your opinion and speak to your child to get their input as well. They may also, where appropriate, ask for the opinion of external experts such as a speech and language therapist, an educational psychologist, or the local authority advisory team.

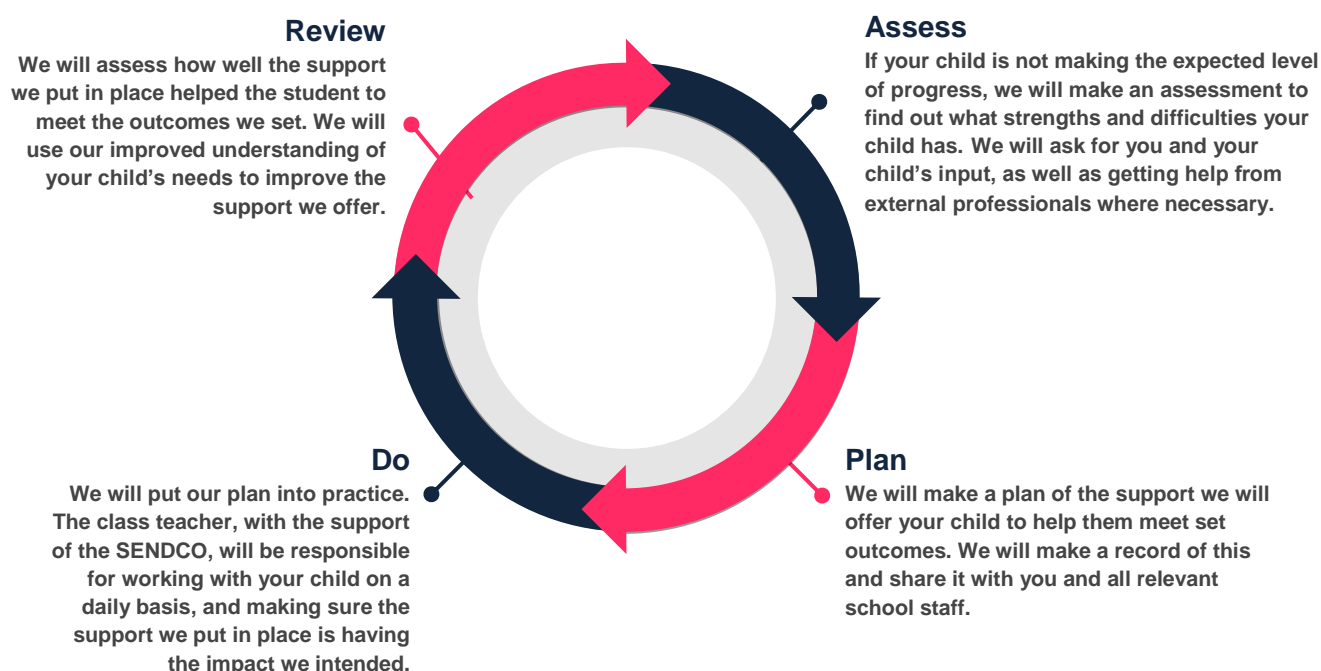

Based on all of this information, the SENDCO will decide whether your child needs SEN support. You will be advised of the outcome.

If your child does need SEN support, their name will be added to the school's SEN register, and the SENDCO will work with you to create a SEN passport for them. Students with a greater degree of identified need will also have a more detailed Learning Plan generated.

5. How will the school measure my child's progress?

We will follow the 'graduated approach' to meeting your child's SEN needs.

The graduated approach is a 4-part cycle of assess, plan, do, review.

As a part of the planning stage of the graduated approach, we will set outcomes or targets that we want to see your child achieve.

Whenever we run an intervention with your child, we will assess them before the intervention begins. This is known as a 'baseline assessment'. We do this so we can see how much impact the intervention has on your child's progress.

We will track your child's progress towards the outcomes we set over time and improve our offer as we learn what your child responds to best.

This process will be continual. If the review shows a student has made progress, they may no longer need the additional provision made through SEN support. For others, the cycle will continue and the school's targets, strategies and provisions will be revisited and refined.

6. How will I be involved in decisions made about my child's education?

We will review your child's SEN passport on at least 2 occasions throughout each academic year. For those students who require monitoring through a Learning Support Plan, we will review those on a more regular basis. These documents will be shared with yourself as your input is a vital part of this learning support.

You will also be invited to meet your child's crew leader and class teachers throughout the year, and you are able to meet the SENDCO at Parents evenings, or at your request. During these meetings you will be able to

- Review progress towards outcomes
- Discuss the support we will put in place to help your child make that progress
- Identify what we will do, what we will ask you to do, and what we will ask your child to do

7. How will my child be involved in decisions made about their education?

We may seek your child's views by asking them to:

- Attend meetings to discuss their progress and outcomes
- Prepare a presentation, written statement, video, drawing, etc.
- Discuss their views with a member of staff who can act as a representative during the meeting should they not wish to attend
- Complete a survey

8. How will the school adapt its teaching for my child?

Your child's class teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of all the students in their class. They have high expectations of all students, including those with SEND. All teachers are made aware of each student's needs by means of their SEND passport, and they work closely with the SEND team to ensure that they are employing strategies which support each individual to make the best progress they can.

High-quality teaching is our first step in responding to your child's needs. We will make sure that your child has access to a broad and balanced curriculum in every year they are at our school.

We will differentiate (or adapt) how we teach to suit the way the student works best. There is no 'one size fits all' approach to adapting the curriculum, we work on a case-by case basis to ensure the support and guidance, and any adaptation to the student's learning experience, achieves the best possible outcomes. These adaptations include:

- Differentiating our curriculum to make sure all students are able to access it, for example, by grouping, 1-to-1 work, adapting the teaching style or content of the lesson, etc.
- Differentiating our teaching, for example, giving longer processing times, pre-teaching of key vocabulary, reading instructions aloud, etc.
- Adapting our resources and staffing
- Using recommended aids, such as laptops, coloured overlays or paper, visual timetables, larger font, etc.
- Teaching assistants will support students on a 1 to 1 basis where that is laid out in their EHC plan or where there is significant short term need identified
- Teaching assistants will support students in small groups when a gap in learning, or an SEMH need is identified.

Most of our students follow the UTC curriculum, but if deemed appropriate, some adjustments may be made for a student to respond to their individual needs. We will ensure that no student is disadvantaged by their disability, as outlined in our Disability Access Statement, which can be found on UTC South Durham's website.

These interventions are part of our contribution to Co. Durham's local offer.

9. How will the school evaluate whether the support in place is helping my child?

We will evaluate the effectiveness of provision for your child by:

- Reviewing their progress towards their goals
- Reviewing the impact of interventions
- Using student and parent voice
- Monitoring by the SENDCO
- Using provision maps to measure progress
- Holding annual reviews (if they have an education, health and care (EHC) plan)

10. How will the school resources be secured for my child?

It may be that your child's needs mean we need to secure:

- Extra equipment or facilities
- More teaching assistant hours
- Further training for our staff
- External specialist expertise

If need is determined, we will consult with external agencies to obtain recommendations on what will be most effective in supporting your child access their learning.

The school will cover the first element of any necessary costs. If funding is needed beyond this, we will seek it from our local authority.

11. How will the school make sure my child is included in activities alongside students who don't have SEND?

All of our extra-curricular activities and school visits are made available to all our students. There may be instances where additional support is needed to be to facilitate that, or where poor behaviour leads to that privilege being withdrawn. We will consider a child's SEN need when making those decisions, making reasonable adjustments wherever possible..

All students are encouraged to go on our school trips, including our residential trips and to take part in sports day and industry / community based visits and workshops

No student is ever excluded from taking part in these activities because of their SEN or disability and we will make whatever reasonable adjustments are needed to make sure that they can be included.

12. How does the school make sure the admissions process is fair for students with SEN or a disability?

UTC does not discriminate against students with SEND, regardless of over subscription. The SENDCO is available at Open Evenings for prospective students in order that SEN specific questions about need can be asked. Once an application to join UTC South Durham has been made, the SENDCO meets with the child and their parents in order to build a picture of need and the provision that needs to be available.

Where a consultation is made for the admission of a child with an EHC Plan, the provision required is carefully considered and a decision is made as to whether we can meet that need and to ensure that the potential placement of that child will have no adverse effect on the education experiences of their peers.

13. How does the school support students with disabilities?

UTC South Durham takes steps to ensure that the disability of a student does not lead to them being treated less favourably than their peers. Our building is fully accessible and inclusive. Where specialist equipment or resources are necessary, we may work with external services in order to provide them.

14. How will the school support my child's mental health and emotional and social development?

We provide support for students to progress in their emotional and social development in the following ways:

- Students with SEN have access to a quiet area for social times if necessary
- Students with SEN take part in 1 to 1, or small group SEMH sessions aimed at developing confidence, self-esteem and social communication skills
- We refer students to the Mental Health Support team, or the Emotional Resilience and Wellbeing nurses.
- We have an ELSA trained TA, and trained counsellors
- The Student Leaver Profile encourages all students to develop social skills within their UTC career
- The SEND team run small group sessions and outings aimed at developing communication skills and building meaningful friendships
- We provide extra pastoral support for listening to the views of students with SEN
- We have a 'zero tolerance' approach to bullying.

15. What support will be available for my child as they transition between classes or settings or in preparing for adulthood?

Between years

To help students with SEND be prepared for a new school year we invite the most anxious or vulnerable of our students to join us for a session ahead of the start of term.

Between schools

Before joining UTC South Durham, and with your permission, we will approach your child's current school to request any SEND information. We run a comprehensive transition programme, its extent being determined by the level of individual need.

When your child is moving on from our school, we will ask you and your child what information you want us to share with the new setting.

Onto adulthood

Our Student Leaver Profile aspires for all of our students to leave us 'career and life ready'. Our core skills are developed through activities in the classroom and also through DropDown Days and project work.

We provide all our students with appropriate advice on paths into work or further education. We work with DurhamWorks to provide further support to our most vulnerable students, and also take advantage of sessions run by Durham Enable in order to support students in becoming work ready.

We work with students to help them achieve their ambitions, which can include goals in higher education, employment, independent living and participation in society.

16. What support is in place for looked-after and previously looked-after children with SEN?

Our SENDCO, Jak Heslop, is also the Designated Teacher for children who are in the care of the local authority, or who are previously looked-after. She ensures that all teachers understand how a looked-after or previously looked-after student's circumstances and their SEN might interact, and what the implications are for teaching and learning.

Children who are looked-after or previously looked-after will be supported much in the same way as any other child who has SEND. However, looked-after students will also have a personal education plan (PEP). We will make sure that the PEP and any SEN support plans or EHC plans are consistent and complement one another.

17. What should I do if I have a complaint about my child's SEN support?

Complaints about SEN provision in our school should be made to the SENDCO or headteacher in the first instance. They will then be referred to the school's complaints policy which can be found at <https://www.utcsouthdurham.org/home/policies/standard-policy-documentation>

If you are not satisfied with the school's response, you can escalate the complaint. To see a full explanation of suitable avenues for complaint, see pages 246 and 247 of the SEN Code of Practice.

If you feel that our school discriminated against your child because of their SEND, you have the right to make a discrimination claim to the first-tier SEND tribunal. To find out how to make such a claim, you should visit: <https://www.gov.uk/complain-about-school/disability-discrimination>

Before going to a SEND tribunal, you can go through processes called disagreement resolution or mediation, where you try to resolve your disagreement before it reaches the tribunal.

18. What support is available for me and my family?

If you have questions about SEND, or are struggling to cope, please get in touch to let us know. We want to support you, your child and your family.

To see what support is available to you locally, have a look at your local authority's local offer. Links to the relevant webpages can be found on our website.

Our local authorities also offer special educational needs and disabilities information advice and support services (SENDIASS) eg <https://durhamsendiass.info/> and there are many support groups for families of children with SEND eg <https://www.rollercoasterfamilysupport.co.uk/>

National charities that offer information and support to families of children with SEND are:
